SHERMAN TALKS ON JURISDICTION

Vice President is Principal Orator at Unveiling of Monument to the Soldiers of Civil War.

By Associated Press.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 21.—The orator of the day at the unveiling here today of the monument to the soldiers of the civil war was Vice President James Sherman.

As he looked upon the fresh granite and newly molded bronze of the impressive monument just unveiled, the vice president pronounced it to be a fitting recognition of the passionate patriotism which held together the states of the Union.

"This is but one form of testimonial to the boys in blue," said the vice president, "and its value and meaning multiplied and intensified because there is not lacking other forms of expression of the people's gratitude to the nation's preservers."

For the veterans still living, he pointed out that nearly half a hundred soldier's homes offered care and comfort to nearly forty thousand maimed and infirm who have suffered from the wounds and hardships of war. A generous government with lavish hand had made provision, he said, to aid the living and help or succor the dear survivors of the hero dead by pensions.

"Neither the monuments we dedicate," said he, "nor the soldier homes and pensions the nation provides is a charity. All are acknowledgements of just debts, the payment of sacred obligations. They are decorations, badges of heroism, more nobly earned than the ribbon of the French legion of honor, or the garter of British knighthood."

"The people of today have no fear of too generous treatment to the soldiers of the sixties. Their just merits are to be measured by the grandeur of the nation which they preserved, by what it was, by what it is, by what in all the years to come it will be."

"The greatest, the most beautiful, the most perfect monument that could be raised to our soldiers," he said, "they themselves built in the union they saved."

"With the constitution as its cornerstone, the states as its buttresses and its ornaments, 'law and order' inscribed on either side and wingless liberty sublime on its summit, awe and reverence dedicate it to these most worthy among mankind."

"All monuments, the republic itself, point not alone to the past; they rest in the present and are prophets and teachers to the millions of sons and daughters, heirs of the priceless inheritance secured for them by the men of '61 and '65."

"Not by sloth and neglect can we lay claim to the great estate. Virtue, uprightness, self-sacrifice and devotion to the public weal, heroic purpose, practical effort for the purest and highest ideals must be the title deed to share in this precious patrimony. Who dare add a word to such oracles? Who dare venture a note in such anthem? Surely spirits of heroes rise from the dead to urge anew the appeals of their own lives that we all should walk in the path of patriotic duty and each do well his full share of the labor of mind and soul, and body to preserve and hand to posterity the legacy we have enjoyed."

Both Placed Under Bond.

As a result of the fight on the streets yesterday afternoon between Jack Smith and Dock Isbell the latter was fined $8 in police court. Both Isbell and Clay Tittle were placed under $250 bond to appear in the county court on a charge of transporting liquor from one part of the state to another.

Johnson with his wife and several others arrived at the hotel yesterday, with Webb. Webb registered from Nome, Alaska. Johnson did not give his address but it is supposed came from Seattle.

The crime was discovered when blood was seen coming from the trunk, which had been sent to the depot, and checked to North Puyallup, Wash.

Later examination of Johnson's room at the hotel disclosed evidence of a fierce fight. The walls and bedding were spattered with blood. Webb when arrested had Johnson watch and his hand was injured and bandaged.

CAMPBELL PRACTICALLY ASSUMES JURISDICTION

Attorneys for Guthrie Continue to Argue Capitol Removal Case—Dale Concludes Argument on Jurisdiction—Buford Oil Argue Effect of Clause in Enabling Act—Court Room Thronged With People to Hear the Case—West Opens for Haskell.

By Associated Press.

Guthrie, Okla., June 21.—The counsel for Guthrie resumed the argument of the capital removal injunction case this morning. Attorney Frank Dale concluded the argument on jurisdiction, giving way to Judge Buford, who dealt with the binding effect of the enabling act.

United States Judge Ralph E. Campbell, at last night's session of the hearing on the application for an injunction, restraining the removal of the state capital from Guthrie to Oklahoma City, permitted Judge Frank Dale, an attorney representing Guthrie to enter into all phases of the question in his argument in opposition to Governor C. N. Haskell's motion for a dismissal.

The court's action practically amounted to an assumption of jurisdiction without ruling on the motions for dismissal and is construed by many as a constructive victory for Guthrie.

The further hearing of the application for an injunction will be continued Tuesday morning.

Delayed en route by a slight train wreck, at Calvin, Okla., and forced to motor from Oklahoma City north, United States Judge Ralph E. Campbell, of Muskogee, opened the hearing of the Guthrie injunction case at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

For two hours before Judge Campbell took the bench, the court room had been crowded with Guthrie and Oklahoma City citizens, many of them women.

The attorneys employed in the case and newspaper men crowded the space before the bench while Guthrie women filled the jury box and much of the room.

Judge Frank Dale, John N. Buford, Frank Buford and C. G. Horner appeared for Guthrie, or W. H. Coyle, the petitioner.

Attorney General West, Assistant Attorney General Smith, Spillman and Davenport; B. F. Burwell, E. J. Giddings, C. B. Ames, M. Fulton and W. A. Ledbetter representing the state of Oklahoma and Oklahoma City, while Mr. West appeared especially for Governor C. N. Haskell and Secretary of State Bill Cross.

Attorney General West began by offering two motions, but was interrupted by Judge Frank Dale with a motion to amend the original petition, in such a way as to contest the validity of the law under which the election was held June 11th.

Mr. West insisted that he should not be required to hear the application for an amendment to the petition, and the court recessed an hour to permit counsel to examine the motions offered by the other sides.

Mr. West filed in open court a motion on behalf of the governor to dismiss the case on the ground that the suit was against the state without its consent, and entered a plea in abatement for Secretary of State Bill Cross on the same grounds.

At 4:20 o'clock the attorneys were ready to proceed, and the attorney general consumed two hours with an argument in support of the motion for the dismissal.

He stated at the outset that at Governor Haskell's direction, the Coyle petition for an injunction was attacked only on the ground that it was a suit against the state without its consent, in violation of the Eleventh amendment to the constitution. A part of the attorney general's argument was in the nature of a colloquy with the court, Judge Campbell plying the binding character of the enabling act provisions adopted into the state constitution, and the conditions not adopted into the constitution but accepted by "ordinance irrevocable."

The latter referred to their acceptance by the constitutional convention which the attorney general did not amount to acceptance by the people of the sovereign state.

Mr. West contended that W. H. Coyle could have no property right in the location of the state capital, when the court suggested that any taxpayer might have a right of action against a state officer alleged to be violating the laws.

At the conclusion of the attorney general's argument court recessed until 8 o'clock p. m., before taking up the other side of the case.
